THE ANDREWS COLLECTION

Continuing the theme of Maresca Textiles' beloved Louise Floral design, The Andrews Collection pays homage to founder Kathryn Faull's roots and is named after the town in South Carolina where her formidable great-grandmother Louise Bell and her family lived for multiple generations.

The collection of four new prints in curated colorways embody many traits of the Southern landscape and evokes nostalgic memories of her upbringing. Designed through a modern lens, the traditionally inspired motifs and layouts are transformed into a collection of contemporary textiles and wallpapers that live in the present but honor the past and its influences.

Kathryn's connection to home will always be a source of inspiration and a part of her aesthetic sensibility. Ingrained in her is the ability to slow down and take things in, which has translated into her design process—working thoughtfully, stepping away, and returning with fresh perspective.

ANDREWS FLORAL

Andrews Floral is inspired by a wallpaper in Kathryn's great-grandmother's house in Andrews, SC, which featured traditional Jacobean floral motifs in shades of blue, red and green. Her design has been updated with a punchy use of color and hand-drawn motifs that provide a relaxed look to an otherwise tailored layout.

As a continuation of Louise Floral, this design uses the same drawing style, a combination of pen and ink and frisket techniques, with a striated ground so the entire print feels hand-drawn.

JUNIPER STRIPE

Juniper Stripe is inspired by the Juniper trees that are common in this part of the South. With prickly leaves that are filled with berries they are somehow both structured and wild. The undulation of the stripe mimics the tree swaying in an afternoon breeze.

ROSEMARY

Rosemary, named after the avenue that Louise Bell lived on, features a quirky, tossed floral motif with a decidedly feminine feel. Rosemary was designed to color-coordinate with Andrews Floral, yet has enough personality to stand on its own. It is screen printed on breezy, lightweight linen in unexpected color combinations.

SASSAFRAS

Also a street in Andrews, Sassafras acts as a coordinate to the other patterns in the Andrews Collection and uses color as the common thread that ties all of the designs together. The sassafras plant has a three pronged leaf, similar in shape to the motif in this design.

WALLPAPER COLLECTION

We've taken three of the new prints and translated them into wallpapers. Whether paired with their corresponding fabrics for an immersive experience or used with another design for a more collected feel, they are a great addition to the existing Maresca Textiles wallpaper collection.

OUR PROCESS

Maresca Textiles are rooted in originality and all of the designs originate from handmade marks on paper. This collection was created using a variety of mark making techniques like pen and ink and frisket resist, and a focus was placed on retaining the handmade quality throughout the design process. The result manifests in sophisticated patterns with movement and texture that transition from traditional to modern spaces.

The Andrews Collection is a personal one for Kathryn, stemming from childhood memories of her great grandmother's home. The photography takes you on a journey from the front of her home to the back, each vignette re-imagining a different room of this multi-generational house in Andrews, SC.
